President's Report

Tonight we welcome the Directors, players, staff and supporters of Sydney United for what should be a great match.

The Club has formed a relationship with Aussie Rules team the Sydney Swans and will be holding a celebrity shoot-out with some Swans players during the last home game against Brisbane.

We are also doing a joint game promotion on April 14, details of which are on page 8.

With only three home games left I hope you will all come and support the team as they head for the finals.

I wish all supporters a very happy Easter — both Greek and Australian!

Coach's Report

Tonight's game is the second game of a very important weekend for all teams. The results of these two games could decide the fate of a number of teams. Obviously our result at South Melbourne is unknown at the time of writing this. This evening we welcome Sydney United to Leichhardt Oval for what should be a very good game. We have met twice already this season in two very open and entertaining games. United have a very strong squad with Tony Popovic, Mark Babic, Ante Moric, Robert Enes and Manis Lamond just some of the quality players we will be up against this evening.

Last week's result against Wollongong was very important, enabling us to keep the pressure on Marconi. It certainly wasn't a great performance, but the result was the most valuable at this stage of the season. It was good to see Norman Tome on the score sheet and the goal will be a boost to his confidence. Mike Gibson also bounced back to form with a very good performance. We are now looking at a number of other players to lift their game and to get back to their best form.

At the moment we have only two senior players on the injured list. Peter Tsekenis and Chris Slater should be back on the field in the next two weeks, which will be a huge boost in the final few games of the season. The only player probably not to play again this season is young George Valas who had a fairly serious knee operation which will probably end his season early.

Once again we are hoping to give you the supporters plenty to cheer about, but it would be great to hear you all get behind the players and lift them in tonight's very important game. Thank you.

Did you know?

Favourite food:	Pasta
Favourite drink:	Coke
Favourite film:	Breakfast at Tiffanys
Favourite music:	Counting Crows
My car:	Holden Astra
My hero:	Greg Norman & Collingwood footballer Nathan Buckley
Tip for young players:	Work hard and follow your dreams.

After transferring from Brisbane to Olympic earlier in the season and kicking a goal against Canberra, Chris Slater was unfortunately seriously injured and has missed all the games in 1996. Chris describes the feeling of not being able to take the field as his most frustrating time ever.

Despite his injury-ridden season Chris has enjoyed his time with Olympic and says he has been looked after well by the Club and by one of its major sponsors, Skilled Engineering.

Chris is contracted to play with Olympic next season and looks forward to repaying the Club for its faith in him. Slater was leading scorer for the Brisbane Strikers for three out of the past four seasons so all Olympic fans look forward to his expected return in the next few weeks and hope that he can repeat his impressive strike rate for his new team.

In recent years there has been increased emphasis placed on fitness for referees and training sessions have changed from routine circuit work to drills specifically designed for referees and linesmen in addition to strengthening and aerobic exercises. There has also been an increasing awareness of how diet and lifestyle can effect on-field performance. In the past little or no attention was paid to pre and post match routines – now referees warm up and cool down in much the same way as most players.

During USA '94 an analysis of players and referees movement patterns provided some interesting statistics. Referees, forwards and midfielders were compared in terms of total distance covered and time spent during the game walking, slow and fast jogging, and sprinting. The comparison is certainly valid at most levels of football even if the total distance covered varies depending on the competition.

In the match studied the referee spent 10% of the match walking compared with 20% for midfielders and 25% for forwards. The slow job was used for between 35% (Referee) and 45% (Midfield) of the match and the fast jog for 20% of the game by the players and 25% by the referee. The referee spent 35% of the game sprinting (obviously not all the time at maximum speed) whereas the midfielder sprinted for 20% of the match and the forward for 25%.

The above figures show that the referee must move faster and more consistently than the players in order to control the match effectively.

Another interesting statistic was the distance covered during the match. The forward covered a total of 9.5 kilometres, the midfielder 11.3km and the referee 12.6km.

QUESTIONS:

1. Can the goalkeeper take a throw-in?
2. Injured players can only return to the field of play with the referee's permission, but this does not normally have to be during a stoppage in play. Under what circumstances must the referee wait for a stoppage?
3. The Laws of the Game state that the ball must be a certain weight and pressure. What happens if the ball becomes heavier during the game?
4. At a throw-in the ball is thrown, hits the referee and goes out of play over the sideline without another player having played the ball. How is play restarted?

ANSWERS:

1. Yes
2. If the injured player has been bleeding. The player is not permitted to return until the bleeding has stopped and he has been checked by the referee.
3. The ball is NOT changed. The weight is stipulated for the commencement of the match and if the ball becomes heavier it is not changed. However, if the ball becomes deflated, the ball is changed.
4. Throw in to the opposing team.

"Development Corner"

by LAKI KONISTIS

Good evening folks, and welcome to tonight's game. The UTS Development Team had another busy month in March and one of its highlights was being invited to Canterbury Soccer Club's Saturday morning training session.

The electrifying Kris Trajanovski put the youngsters through some interesting soccer drills and even taught them some "secrets" as far as scoring is concerned.

The Development Team were also special guests at a BBQ arranged by the Club's major sponsor, UTS recently – and it was great to have Peter Tsekenis back on deck too!

Other highlights also included being present at the Boys' and Girls' Blight Zone selection trials just before the school holidays, and a special promotion with another of the Club's sponsors, namely "Mobile Express", (hi Dino).

Remember, if you want UTS Olympic to visit your school or club, simply complete the accompanying coupon — IT IS THAT EASY!
